Freedom is the state of being entirely free. Many governments claim to guarantee freedom, but often people do not, in fact, they have the absolute freedom to act or speak without restraint. You will notice the word free in freedom. Free comes from the German frei, meaning, "to love." The word friend shares this origin. You can think of freedom as the condition in which you have the choice to love any friend you wish.

The definition of independence is freedom from outside control or support, the state of being independent, and the time when a country or region gains political freedom from outside control. We have just celebrated the 4th of July holiday which commemorates our nation's independence as a country. Many have given the ultimate sacrifice so we all can enjoy those freedoms each of us know and desire. If the words of President Abraham Lincoln hold true, and we lose our freedoms because we falter, it "WILL be because we destroyed ourselves".

However, if free comes from the German word frei meaning to love and the word friend shares the same origin,

*I challenge each one of you to stand strong on your convictions, be prayerful for our nation and always defend the love for each other.
May God Bless each one of you.*
